Setting Up – During this stage, we are configuring your growth environment to optimize conditions for your plantation. This includes adjusting lighting, temperature, soil, and nutrient levels to ensure the best possible foundation for healthy plant development.

Germination – The seeds begin to sprout, and roots start forming beneath the soil. This is the earliest stage of growth, where the plant establishes its root system and begins the initial stages of development above the soil. Proper care during this stage is crucial for strong and healthy growth.

Seedling – The young plant develops its first true leaves and strengthens its stem. At this stage, the plant is more stable and begins to establish its structure. Growth is steady, and careful monitoring ensures that it receives adequate nutrients and light to continue thriving.

Vegetative – During the vegetative stage, the plant experiences rapid growth. Leaves and branches expand significantly, allowing for optimal photosynthesis. The plant is actively maturing, building energy reserves and structural strength to support future flowering.

Flowering – The plant begins producing flowers, marking its reproductive phase. This indicates maturity and readiness for the next stage. During flowering, energy and nutrients are directed towards bud development, and proper care ensures maximum yield and quality.

Harvested – The plantation has been successfully harvested. All growth processes are complete, and the produce is ready for use or sale. This final stage reflects the culmination of careful cultivation and automated management processes, delivering the results of your investment.
